"Thank you for having a heart!" Mitzie Hawkins

It is with heavy, but full hearts, that we remember our cherished, long-time supporter and former board member, Mitzie Hawkins.

"She was 93 and up until just a few weeks before becoming ill she baked dozens of cookies for group of young musicians at the Vail Jazz Festival. There wasn't anything that she wasn't up for when it came to having some fun or helping out on a committee. I was so honored to be her friend and help her when she reached out to me. She will missed by so many!" Marge Gavenda, Secretary, Board of Directors

Building community

"The suicide rate in Summit and other mountain communities is consistently higher the national average. Of the 10 states with the highest suicide rates, eight were in the Rocky Mountains region: Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New

The Summit Daily News four-part series focused on longevity in Summit County. For a segment in the series, "Building community: Identifying solutions to the mental health problem" they spoke with Helen Royal, CEO; Dr. Kathleen Cowie, Chief Medical Officer; and Kellyn Glynn, Interim Chief Behavioral Officer. They discussed the Care Clinic's extensive integrated health services and our local solutions to behavioral health challenges. Our generous donors help make our services possible.

Kathleen Cowie and Helen Royal talk about mental health care at the Summit Community Care Clinic on Tuesday, Sept. 17, in Frisco.

2018 Annual Report

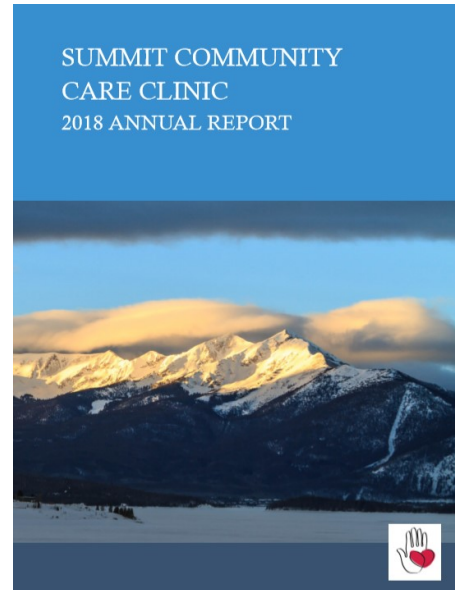

"We take pride in providing quality, integrated, patient centered care. While our services continue to evolve to meet community needs, we remain grounded in our commitment to provide the highest level of care possible for each of our 8,300+ patients.

Providing care for all, regardless of ability to pay, is a challenge. Thanks to our community partners and donors, we are meeting that challenge. We are an innovative and essential local solution to a national problem. We are Summit County's health care home.

Thank you for your ongoing support."

Helen Royal, MA, LPC, CEO
David Nicoli, Board President
